Later in the newspaper article he is quoted: "Pictures won't help. The Roger Patterson films, the only genuine movies showing a Sasquatch I know of, have only served to add to the mystery around the subject. People think it was faked." "Titmus immediately left the preview of the later Patterson's movie in Canada, flew to northern California area where the film was made, retraced Patterson's footsteps in country Titmus was already familiar with, and discovered positive supportive evidence including Patterson's and the Sasquatch's footsteps. Titmus had studied Sasquatch tracks for so long in the area that he refers to individual animals by nickname. The one Patterson filmed he calls 'the old lady.'").
