ROMANCE OF THE NUMBER, 17.—The Paris correspondent of the Boston Courier tells the following curious story:

"A young Roman accompanied by a rosy Parisienne is observed daily in the Bois, riding behind a pair of iron gray horses. Nothing singular in this, certainly, but the panel of the calash displays an elaborate coat of arms, with the cipher 17 raised in gold on a blue ground. A crown is likewise discovered, for M. Carradini (such is the hero's name) is a Roman Count. Anything peculiar in that figure 17, think you? Listen. The father of the Count arrived in Rome at the age of seventeen, with 17 baiocchi in his pocket. From a garcon de cafe he rose to the position of porter, and then became a cicerone. With his earnings, amounting to 1,700 crowns, he opened a small cafe. Selling it at a later period for seventeen thousand, he built a hotel, which he kept for seventeen years. He next became interested in the grain trade, made seventeen voyages to the East, amassed a colossal fortune within a second period of seventeen years, and finally retired to Odessa.

Remarking the happy influence of the figure 17 upon his destinies, he applied it in everything. All his business transactions, all his voyages were commenced on the 17th of the month—he owned 17 vessels, bought 17 chateaux. Strange to say, he died at the age of 77, leaving 17 millions to his three children. His eldest son son bought him a Roman title for the sole purpose of displaying a coat of arms which should immortalize the famous number. In order to propitiate the presiding genius of his father, he married a young girl of 17, on the 17th of December last. He had long searched the Champs Elysees for a site where his hotel (in contemplation) could have the number 17. Perseverance has rewarded his efforts—he has found just such a spot in the Rue des Vignes—17 friends dine with him weekly, and he is determined that neither his wife nor himself shall outlive the 77 years of his father. This is an "ower true tale."

MR. SICKLES.—The prospects of that chaste martyr to domestic honor, Mr. Sickles, are becoming slightly overclouded. He is not so popular as he was, and there is some hope that justice may yet be done upon him, notwithstanding his exalted position in politics. The attempts that have been systematically made to create opinion in his favor, do not succeed so well as was expected of them. The prejudice against homicide is recovering its hold on the public mind, and people are beginning to understand that it would be impolitic to grant even to a Sickles license to murder. If every individual is to be at liberty to right his own real or supposed wrongs, we shall soon be qualified for annexation to the Fejee Islands. It is reported that Fernando Wood sympathizes with Sickles. We should have guessed as much, and much good may his sympathies effect for their object. It is a strange practical commentary on Mr. Sickles's horror at unchastity in woman, that he should allow his daughter to live with his unfaithful wife. If Mrs. Sickles is so bad as she must be, to afford even the shadow of a justification of her husband's conduct, is she fit to bring up a young girl, who cannot long be kept in ignorance of the position of her parents? This is a singular proceeding on Mr. Sickles's part, and goes far to justify those who think his wife has some hold on him with which the public are unacquainted. The causes of it should be sought for by the friends of Mr. Key, who are not disposed to give up their old associate's memory. The trial of Sickles is expected to be a "rich" one.—Traveller.

THE KEY FAMILY.—The Keys are a family unfortunate in their personal differences. I have referred to the case of an elder brother of Mr. Key who was killed in a duel about twenty years ago. It has been erroneously stated in a Washington print that the quarrel was about a woman. It was a boyish caprice, and yet the cause and course of it were characteristic on both sides. Sherburne and Key were young midshipmen together. They sailed in the same ship on one of the long and useless cruises prescribed for the exercise of our navy. Mr. Sherburne was from New Hampshire, quiet and unobtrusive. Mr Key was a Marylander, connected with the most aristocratic families of that State and Virginia. He took a dislike to Mr. Sherburne and pursued him with ceaseless insults on board ship. A party of young midshipmen attended an evening party given by a Congressional mess at a fashionable boarding house here in Washington. The middies took their wine together, but Key was observed to leave his wine untasted. He was called on for an explanation, and gave it bluntly by saying that Sherburne was a coward for not resenting the indignities he had before inflicted on him, and he could not drink with him. The poor young man was at length aroused. He looked steadily at Mr. Key, also setting down his glass, and said: "I understand you. You have made a mistake. You ought to have known me better I will correct your mistake." He then bowed to his companions, excepting Mr. Key, drank to them, and retired. The next morning, Sherburne sent a message which produced a meeting at Bladensburg. Key was shot through the kidneys, and lingered two days in intolerable anguish.

Key's marriage was also attended and preceded by evidences of the same strong and erratic temperament. Col. Charles May, of Palo Alto celebrity, had courted the beautiful Miss Swan of Baltimore, and been accepted by her. He introduced Key to her as his intended bride. The two fell in love at first sight, and the gallant captain of dragoons was left to mourn the inconstancy of the female heart. He of course challenged Key. The affair produced an awful tumult in Washington. Key and May were pursued by the police. They barricaded themselves in separate apartments, and defied the civil power; but of course the deed was prevented. The captain went to the wars, where he achieved fame on the field, and Key, having married the beauty, was appointed through family influence to the office which he held at his death. This lady, one of the loveliest I ever saw, died two or three years ago, and it is thought by some that Key, from the oddity of his dress and the singularity of his behavior, afterwards became partially deranged by the bereavement. But this was an unfounded conjecture. His friends had known him always to possess an unbalanced and extravagant mind, in which violent anger and passionate tenderness alternated.—Chicago Tribune.

ANECDOTE OF JOHN RANDOLPH.—It is related of this singular but gifted man that being, as was supposed, upon his death bed several persons who had been his enemies called upon him to offer acts of kindness. Among others, was the late John C. Calhoun, who desired a reconciliation with Randolph before his death, especially for his political benefits. Randolph received him kindly, and accepted his proffers of sympathy, and freely forgave him for his previous opposition, and accepted an amicable settlement of all difficulties.

Calhoun was delighted with this manifestation of kindness, but what was his surprise when on taking leave of the exhausted and, as it was supposed dying Randolph; the latter called him back to his bedside with this exclamation: "Now, Calhoun, remember, if I get well, all this goes for nothing." He did get well and took an active part in politics, but never spoke to Calhoun again during the balance of his days. It did all go for nothing.

WHAT MAKES A MAN?—The longer I live the more certain I am that the great difference between men, the great and insignificant, is energy—invincible determination—an honest pupose once fixed—and the victory. That quality will do any thing that can be done in the world; and no talent, no circumstances, no opportunity, will make a two-legged creature a man without it.—Goethe.

FOR SALE IN NEW ENGLAND VILLAGE.—The Stock and Fixtures in Store recently occupied by EDWIN SMITH, Merchant Tailor, deceased. This stock consists of a complete assortment of articles usually kept in a fashionable Tailoring and Gentlemen's Furnishing Establishment. This is no old out of date stock. The late proprietor never allowed such articles to remain on hand, buying in small quantities and often was his custom. This is an old stand and has proved a profitable one; the late owner having been doing a good business for twenty years in the same place. This stock will be sold together with fixtures (such as tailors usually have) much below their value for cash or approved credit. Any man with small means and entertaining, can make money by taking this stock and stand, and preparing for the spring trade. Inquiry may be made of Dr. C. H. JENCKS, 239 Main street, Worcester, or B. JENCKS, or Mrs. H. E. SMITH, New England Village. dtf mch4

REAL ESTATE WANTED.—The subscriber, wishing to take up his residence in this city, is desirous of exchanging for Real Estate in the city of Worcester, 1000 acres of Land, covered with a heavy and original growth of maple, birch, beech, hemlock, and spruce, (at least 40 cords to the acre,) the best upon the whole Line of the Grand Trunk Railway. Said land has also a never failing water power, (Androscoggin River.)—Ready purchasers for the wood, the Grand Trunk Railway Co., at a price of $2 to $2 25 per cord, and parties in the vicinity will contract to cut and draw to Railroad for $1 25 per cord. Said land lies in the town of Gorham, (within three miles of the village,) County of Coos, New Hampshire, at which place the Grand Trunk Railway Co., have established their Shop for making the repairs necessary to be made for over 200 miles of Railroad, and at this village is the Alpine House, a famous resort for persons spending the summer months at the White Mountains. This is a rare chance, as the wood and timber can be readily turned into cash, or, if allowed to remain upon the stump a short time will add much to the value of the same. This caution is rendered essentially necessary as large quantities of inferior and defective Linens are prepared, season after season, and sealed with the name of RICHARDSON, by Irish Houses, who, regardless of the injury thus inflicted alike on the American consumer and the manufacturers of the genuine Goods will not readily abandon a business so profitable, while purchasers can be imposed on with Goods of a worthless character.

BAY STATE
BOOT AND SHOE STORE.
The undersigned, Manufacturers and Dealers in every style of BOOTS AND SHOES, are prepared to furnish every article in their line on more favorable terms than any other dealer in the city and vicinity.
We have enlarged our Store, thereby giving us an opportunity to exhibit
A LARGER AND BETTER STOCK
than has ever been exhibited in this city.
We wish particularly to call the attention of the public to our Manufacturing Department.
We are manufacturing the greater part of the work we sell, all of which we WARRANT to be equal to any in the city or country.
Particular attention given to MEASURE WORK, for both Ladies and Gent's wear.
Our Ladies' Department is still under the supervision of MR. B. M. SMITH, so well and favorably known for perfect fits and workmanship, samples of whose work may be seen in almost every circle of society in the County.
Gentlemen will also find at our store a large assortment of every style of Boots and Shoes of our own manufacture, or they can have any style or kind made to measure by experienced and practical workmen.
In a word, we have or can make any thing for the feet that any Lady or Gentleman can describe, and we wish all who may patronize us to understand that we guarantee all our goods to prove as represented.
The senior partner tenders his thanks to the public for the liberal patronage he has received, and solicits a continuance of the same in behalf of himself and partner.
Our terms will be good goods, Low Prices, and CASH on delivery or receipt of goods.

The Daily Spy

The Spy should have the eye of Argus: he is honorable, if he do but look to the welfare of the Commonwealth.

WORCESTER:

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 23, 1859.

TO ADVERTISERS!

The circulation of The Spy is about double that of any other newspaper in Worcester. The Advertising public will please bear this in mind.

THE SECURITY OF MANUFACTURES.

For the amount of important legislation, affecting the judicial, commercial, and industrial interests of the Commonwealth, which it has either commenced or completed, the present Legislature will hold a memorable place in our State history. Much of that legislation has been of a wise and salutary character, and, when its effects have been fully developed, will redound to the lasting credit of the party on which its responsibility rests. It has initiated, however, other assaults upon our old habits and customs, which partake rather of the rashness of innovation, than of the wisdom of reform. To this class of legislation belongs the bill now pending, introduced by the Committee on Manufactures, and proposing radical and violent changes in the management of manufacturing corporations.

The design of the bill is stated, in the elaborate report which accompanies it, to be to provide new safeguards against the failure of corparations. To establish the necessity of legislation, the committee avail themselves of the painfully interesting fact, that when incorporated companies are overtaken by financial misfortune, the effect is vastly more disastrous than falls to the lot of individuals in similar undertakings and circumstances; and they assume, for the cause, that the management and control of corporations is, under our present laws, centered in the hands of a few salaried persons, who are often interested in concealing the true condition of their affairs from the large body of stockholders and the public.

To remedy the evil the bill provides, first, that the financial standing of corporations shall be annually published in detail; second, that after 1860 no person shall be a Director, in more than two manufacturing companies, or Treasurer in more than one, with capital stocks amounting to $500,000; and third that no stockholder, however, large, shall cast more than ten votes. The provisions are all Democratic. If they related to public institutions, established to promote the public welfare, rather than for purposes of private gain no one would venture to gainsay them.

The success of associated effort in industrial enterprise depends on the amount of its capital and the use which is made of it. As a simple question of equity, it would be clear, that those who have the most invested have the largest interest at stake, and, while other things remain equal, should have the most to say. On general principles there would be no reason, among a hundred men of equal sagacity, in arbitrarily confining one portion to a representation of but a fraction of their investment, while the other portions are allowed to represent the whole. That has been the principle on which our business corporations have been heretofore conducted. But the new bill contemplates a revolution, not for the sake of equalizing the influences of capital and labor, but of large capitalists and small ones. The first result will be to induce large capitalists to seek other modes of investments than in branches of manufacturing industry, on account of which the small capitalists and laborers will be, as usual, the severest sufferers.

Corporations are, undoubtedly, exposed to grave abuses. Mercenary directors and dishonest treasurers have caused more sorrow than will ever reach the public ear. But so long as men work for pay, and so long as associated capital forms a securer basis for large enterprises than individual capital, corporations must be encouraged and sustained. It is suicidal for any friend, especially of the manufacturing enterprises of New England, to claim in behalf of small stockholders privileges which they have not asked for, and which would be injurious if they had them. In matters of this kind we hold that there should be the least legal restraint consistent with the public safety.

THE SCHOOL QUESTION.—The School Committee of Boston did not see fit to take action upon the religious troubles in the Elliot School. The courteous letter of the Bishop of Boston was roughly thrown aside after a little discussion. The result will probably be that the excitement will quietly die away, some of the Catholic boys growing up in the streets, and others returning to school, preferring "to bear the ills they have than fly to others they know not of." There is one paragraph in Bishop Fitzpatrick's letter which states in a nut-shell the difficulty under which the Catholics have always labored under our rules requiring compulsory Protestant religious instruction in our secular schools. It is this:

"It has been supposed that, because he was silent, he was satisfied with the state of our public schools. This is not so. He has always entertained the sentiments which he now expresses. But whenever and wherever an effort has been made by Catholics to effect such changes as they desired, the question has been distorted from its true sense, and a false issue has been set before the non-Catholic community. It has been represented that the design was to eliminate and practically annihilate the Bible. This has never been true; and yet this has always been believed, and a rallying cry 'To the rescue of the Bible!' has resounded on every side. Angry passions have been roused, violent acts been committed, and, almost invariably, the last condition of things has been worse than the first. In the light of this experience, any attempt to bring about a change seemed calculated to cause much strife, but very little good, and, therefore, not advisable."

In regard to this subject, the Boston Bee suggests that we do not understand its bearing. We beg pardon. We understand it just as Micah Dyer, Jr., understood it when he asked the School Committee to spit in the face of Bishop Fitzpatrick, and leave the sub-committee, of which he is Chairman, to prosecute their religious crusade alone. The papers say, with a kind of sad exultation, that some of the expelled boys have since been arrested for larceny, and others found drunk in the streets. These are the trophies of Mr. Dyer's crusade of which he may well be proud.

A severe storm, accompanied by snow and hail, occurred in Cincinnati and the adjoining country on the 18th inst., and it is feared that the peach crop, the trees being almost in bloom, will be seriously damaged if not entirely destroyed.

So say the papers, and if there should be a failure of the peach crop, it will probably, yet, in our opinion, without any good reason, but attributed to the cause above named. As the result of long and careful observation, we believe that the cases where the peach crop is affected by the state of the weather, between the first swelling of the bud and its opening, are exceedingly rare. It is too late for the severe frosts of mid-winter which often kill the germ at that season; and until the germ commenced to enlarge, which is not till the blossom is fully open, it seems capable of resisting the severest weather of the Spring. Some of the most fruitful seasons we have known, followed such storms as that noticed above, when occurring before the blossom opened. At other times, we have known snow, hail and ice, so that the trees would be loaded with it, to occur when a portion of the blossoms were open and the others were not. In such cases, where the blossoms were fully open, the fruit would be mostly destroyed, and where they were not, it would not suffer at all. In our opinion the failure of the peach crop is much oftener attributable to the severe cold of mid-winter than to that in the Spring; although a frost of much severity after the bloom is fully open will destroy the fruit.

REMARKABLE PHENOMENON.—Nearly a year ago, we gave, on the testimony of a friend in Winchendon, an account of "the woman who lives without eating or drinking," in Chester, Warren County, N. Y. The evidence of the truthfulness of the account was of the most positive and reliable character. The same friend sends us an extract from a private letter, written on the 4th inst., from a citizen of Chester, of character and respectability. He says:

"Mrs. Hayes remained much in her former condition until the 4th of this month, when she began to talk in a clear and distinct voice to the persons present, who compose a watch or committee, appointed for the purpose of satisfying themselves and the public that her marvellous abstinence is really true. She continued to talk about an hour and a quarter. She requested all present to continue to watch her for twenty-one days, and assured them that God had sustained her more than two years, without food or drink, and would continue to do so for some time to come. She stated that she should recover her health, and then she would tell them all about the matter. She wanted a pledge from the members of the watch, individually, that they would be faithful watchmen for twenty-one days. She has had no spasms since she first spoke on the 4th inst. She remains quiet and stupid most of the time. She talks to the persons composing the watch, once or twice a day, from one half to two hours. This watch is composed of six men of known integrity. Two are constantly present with her, and no others are permitted to enter her room, except her husband, who is not allowed to go within twelve feet of her bed. This watch entered upon the discharge of their duties on the 2d inst., and will continue for twenty-one days. She has eaten nothing since the watch took charge of her."

Our correspondent adds that the force and violence of her motions resembled those of an automaton, rather than of a living being, while her vacant eye and expressionless countenance seemed to denote that the vital spark was extinguished, and the soul had deserted its habitation. Learned and scientific men have examined her case, but have as yet furnished no satisfactory explanation of the mystery.

SHOCKING ACCIDENT.—At Lowell, on Monday afternoon, the wife of Samuel Hyde, a workman in the Hamilton Mill, with a young child in her arms, went in to see her husband. While there, her clothes became entangled with a revolving shaft, about eighteen inches from the floor, by which she was carried round with fearful velocity, and so horribly mangled that she died before reaching home. The child wonderfully escaped with slight injury. She leaves three motherless children—the eldest of which is only seven years old.

About a year ago a man named Waterhouse was killed in the same way, at the same spot.

SUICIDE IN FRANKLIN.—On Wednesday night last, a girl eighteen or twenty years of age, a domestic in the house of Dr. George King of Franklin, in Norfolk county, committed suicide by taking poison.

NEW ENGLAND A SENATORIAL UNIT.—At the Republican celebration in Portsmouth, N. H., last week, a letter was read from Senator Clark, from which we make the following extract:—

"One week ago, I saw the last Democratic Senator from New England depart from the Capitol of the nation. His place was assumed by a staunch Republican, and there is now from New England no Democrat in either House of Congress."

FOUR CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH.—A gentlemen by the name of Ellis Waldrup, residing near Brown's Bridge, on the Chattahoochee, in Georgia, and his wife, about 9 o'clock at night, left their four children, two boys and two girls, the eldest twelve years old, and walked to a neighbor's house, a quarter of a mile off, to see a sick person. They left their children all asleep. On returning home they discovered their house in flames, and were not able to reach the scene of the awful calamity until after the building had fallen in. The children all perished in the flames—every one they had in the world.

A LOSS OF THREE THOUSAND LIVES.—Near Taganrog, on the Sea of Azoff, a catastrophe occurred, about the beginning of February last, which involved a loss of life unparalleled except by memorable earthquakes or volcano eruptions. It appears that some three thousand inhabitants of Taganrog, relying upon the promise of fair weather made by genial atmosphere and the cloudless sky, proceeded to the Azoff Sea to indulge in the sport of fishing beneath the ice—a favorite pastime of that region. The atmosphere continuing serene, the party were lulled into a feeling of security, and ventured further than usual upon the ice, in the hope of obtaining a good haul. Suddenly a breeze sprung up from the east, which, growing boisterous by degrees, whirled the loose snow and fine particles of ice in all directions, and before long succeeded in detaching the ice from the shore. The large ice-field then broke into numerous pieces, which, with their terrified and helpless human freight, drifted towards the open sea. No assistance could be rendered the unhappy beings by their frantic relatives and friends on shore, and within two hours not a sign of life was visible on the surface of the sea. On the following day a cake of ice drifted in shore, upon which were five of the unfortunates—three of them dead, and the other two numb and insensible. The two latter—a girl and an old man—were restored by means of the usual appliances; the girl, however, survived but a few hours; the man recovered, but lost the use of his tongue—a consequence, probably, of the fright caused by the scene he had passed through. He prepared a written narrative of the occurrence of the fearful night on the Azoff.

ANTIOCH COLLEGE.—The Cincinnati Daily Gazette of Friday last says that on Thursday the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company made application to the United States Court for the foreclosure of a mortgage for $27,361 17, principal and interest, given by Antioch College, at Yellow Springs. The mortgage was given in 1853. Upon application of counsel, Judge Leavitt made an order for the sale of the lands and tenements described in the mortgage, and appointed John Kebler a master commissioner for that purpose. Also, to sell certain other lands not embraced in the mortgage referred to, which were assigned to Moses H. Grinnell, to secure certain bonds. The day of sale will be named by the commissioner.

THREE MEN SAVED FROM GOING OVER NIAGARA.—Three residents of Chippewa, C. W., were crossing Niagara River in a sail-boat, last Saturday, just above the rapids, when a high wind caused the boat to capsize. A Niagara boatman, named Sullivan, immediately went to the rescue of the men, who were slowly drifting towards the rapids. He contrived to get two of the men into his boat; the third was towed behind, and made for the shore, which he touched at a point quite low down, barely escaping the swift current next the American shore. The boat in which the men had been, went over the Falls.

The bill for re-opening the African slave trade, under the name of apprenticeship, was lost in the Louisiana House of Representatives by a vote of 37 to 17.

City and County Intelligence.

AN INGENIOUS BLIND GIRL.—We have received from Miss Hannah Donovan, a young lady connected with the State Lunatic Hospital of this city, and who is totally blind, a beautiful miniature card basket, as a specimen of her own handiwork. It is constructed of the finest wire, and of glass and steel beads. Its perfect form and workmanship are truly remarkable, indicating great natural genius, which nothing but severe and patient discipline could have so finely trained as to impart to the nimble fingers, through the single sense of touch, the skill and cunning required to create this tiny, curious thing. We have known this young lady for some time, and it is indeed pleasing to observe, when in her presence, that while the light and beauty of the external world is to her a total darkness, and nature all glorious, but a "sealed book," there is a beauty-giving spirit that watches within—an internal sunlight of the soul, that ever beams forth to shed warmth and happiness to all around her.

Miss Donovan has, among other gifts, a superior musical talent, which, with the natural melody and sweetness of her voice, enables her, by cultivation, to excel in this divine accomplishment. We should judge that her voice was capable of being brought to great power and compass, as it has a fullness and evenness, which in its subdued tones is as sweet as a bird's. Her rendering of "The Blind Girl," at the chapel festivities on New Year's Eve, in tones so harmonizing with the plaintive words, was remarkably fine. We have also heard her, on the Sabbath, and at the evening prayers, and are glad to observe that she affords so much assistance and adds so much to the interest on such occasions. We are also pleased to notice that she is here surrounded with true friends, who do so much to encourage her worthy efforts, and trust that she may long retain the situation which she now occupies at the Hospital through the kindness of the superintendent.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS—Judge Sanger presiding.—Chief Justice Mellen being under the necessity of holding a term of the Court in Greenfield this week and next, there will be only one session of the Court here during these two weeks, at which Judge Sanger will preside.

The following cases are put in order for to-day in the order in which they now stand:—Nos. 672, 745, 797, 806, 490, 552, 819, 831, 971, 998, 1008, 1043, 1073, 1085, 1086, 1094, 1095, 1096.

The case of Freeman et al., vs. McCann, before Judge Sanger, was yesterday decided by a verdict for defendant.

POLICE COURT.—James McDaniel of Roxbury and Shepard Brown of East Brookfield, both drunk, received the usual sentence. James Delany, liquor seller on Temple street, received the usual sentence of $10 and costs and twenty days imprisonment, from which he appealed and gave bonds.

GRAND MILITARY FESTIVAL.—The Worcester Light Infantry will dedicate their new Armory at Horticultural Hall on Friday next, by a dinner in the afternoon, and a ball in the evening. His Excellency Gov. Banks and Staff, Adjutant-General Stone, Maj.-Gen. Morse and Staff, Brig.-Gen. Leonard and Staff, and other distinguished guests from abroad, will be present. The Infantry will perform escort duty by marching to the Bay State House and receiving the invited guests, and marching with them to dinner at the Armory. The Hall will be decorated in Col. Beals' best style.

THE HAYMAKERS.—The musical world are all agog with this musical novelty, and each repetition of it in Boston has but added to its eclat. On Saturday evening, although there were four musical entertainments in the city, the Tremont Temple was completely filled to hear this performance, and it was received with great favor. The Boston Journal, speaking of it, says:—"Our readers in Worcester may prepare themselves for a novel and rare treat." The Musical Review and Gazette says it has been produced "with unbounded success," and similar notices come from all quarters. The advertisement of their performance here, on Thursday evening, will be found in its appropriate place.

FURNITURE.—It will be seen by referring to our advertising columns, that the old firm of Taber & Chollar have purchased the well known furniture stand of E. G. Partridge & Co., and are prepared to do their best to suit their friends and all others who may favor them with a call.

REAL ESTATE.—The dwelling house and lot, No. 238 Main street, were sold at auction yesterday by E. Vaill for $4,000. A. P. Richardson was the purchaser.

The sale of furniture by E. W. Vaill, at the late residence of Joseph Trumbull, Esq., No. 40 Elm street, will be postponed on account of the storm till Friday morning, at 10 o'clock.

A CLERGYMAN ARRESTED WHILE PREACHING A FUNERAL SERMON.—As the Rev. Wm. Watson, the pastor of the Methodist Church in Glenwood, Ia., was preaching at a funeral, he was arrested by officers from an adjoining county for passing counterfeit money. The people in attendance at the funeral were so incensed at the officers that they thrust them from the house, and they concluded to retire until the obsequies were concluded. The clergyman did not accompany the procession to the grave, and the officers arrested him. They had previously searched his house, in the cellar of which they found inks, presses, papers, rolling machines, and the entire apparatus for the manufacture of counterfeit bank bills. They also found $1,000 in counterfeit bills, $800 of which were tens on the Forest City Bank of this city, and about $200 in fives on the State Bank of Ohio. The clergyman made a clean breast of the matter. He became connected with some counterfeiters about two years ago, and, as he had been in early life an engraver, he became a useful and hard-working member of the gang. He has preached in Glenwood about three years. He is about 40 years old, a man of family, and has been very generally esteemed and respected by his congregation and neighbors. He said he joined the counterfeiters to get money "to do good with." This explanation was not very satisfactory to his parishioners, however, and they discarded him at once. He must have been a nice minister. An examination of his "study" showed that he was a regular subscriber to the Life in Boston, Venus's Miscellany, and other flash papers, and the shelves of his bookcase were adorned with the yellow-covered lives of numerous celebrated highwaymen, forgers, &c. He was taken before a justice of the peace, and in default of heavy bail was committed to the county jail to await trial before the Court of Common Pleas. The incident created a great sensation in the little town.—Cleveland Plaindealer.

A document calculated to produce surprise in the minds of the Catholic people, appeared in the New York Herald of Saturday. It was signed "Alfred J. Dayman, Missionary Apostolic," and "Frederick Ferdinand Des Camps, Parochus." These priests have renounced allegiance to the Catholic Church, by repudiating and denouncing the ecclesiastical authority of the diocese of New York. They have announced their intention to "discharge the functions of the priesthood, protected by the civil law." Of course they have incurred suspension, ipso facto, by this announcement, and Bishop Hughes says "Catholics cannot be present or aid in their sacrilegious ministry, without involving themselves individually, in the same spiritual censure of irregularity."

GREETINGS FROM THE NORTH.

NEW HAMPSHIRE, March 18, 1859.

The old SPY comes to me to-day with a change of proprietors. I should be sorry to part with the enterprise and taste which have marked the connection of the retiring proprietors, were it not that the new name gives me assurance that the change is only that of name, and not of character. The beautiful typography of THE SPY has arrested the attention of every reader. Its news has been gathered with despatch from all quarters. Its editorials dignified and worthy of the respect it enjoyed among the multitude of its friends and readers, which increased with its years. Its selections, a most difficult and important part of an editors work, have been judicious and always interesting. And with all its good reading, its large and clear type is not the least of its luxuries. I am sorry to part company from those who have afforded me so much satisfaction, and particularly, am I sorry to lose sight of the old "Earle of Worcester," whose spirits for so many years, animated the "Heart of the Commonwealth." It would be a pleasure to know that he still occupies a chair in the Sanctum. I like old friends, and old associations,—one can take liberties with them which is not permitted to newer acquaintance. But the best of friends have to part—and while we regret the necessities and circumstances which have withdrawn the names of Earle and of Foss, from the columns of the old Spy, it is a satifaction to know that these are replaced by that of Baldwin, whose antecedents are such as to give confidence in his future. So my dear old Spy, though new friends have taken the place of old ones, I shall still greet your intelligent face, and wish you another life of usefulness as lasting and if possible more successful than the last.

Spring weather has come upon us in New Hampshire, almost without our knowing it. It has been raining at intervals for more than a week, and there is a very visible diminution in the quantity of snow. A gentleman in Vermont, who takes notes, told me the other day, that the depth of snow that has fallen this winter in Vermont and New Hampshire will average nine feet. The sleighing has been uninterruptedly good, since before Thanksgiving. The weather has been mild and agreeable all winter, except the two or three days in January. There have been no sudden changes,—no furious storms,—and the roads have not been seriously blocked up. Skating, dancing, singing, sleigh-riding, and other winter sports, have been enjoyed with unusual spirit.

The sugar season has just fairly begun, and I am told the yield will be very good. The snow is still very deep in the woods, which prevents the farmers from getting around with facility; but this is not minded by these people, when all their sweetness is at stake. The cool nights and warm days send the sap spurting into the buckets; and keeps the people as busy as in haying time. The season for making sugar lasts only about two weeks, and, in that time, enough will be made to supply the people of the State for a year.

The streams are filling up from the rains and melting snows, and the chances are, that the overflow will be great. Indeed, all the meadows and lowlands are overflowed, and it is not possible for foot travellers to pass on the roads. The snow is deep in the woods and on the hill sides, and unless an extra heat is put upon it, we have enough to last us till the end of May.

We had an election the other day, and, in footing up the results, the democracy are comforted with the assurance that they have gained something, and won nothing. The party that has succeeded to all the offices and power in the State, is, of course, pious and patriotic, and possessed of principle. The result has been highly satisfactory to a large majority of our people. All the animation and hard words of the campaign are forgotten, and they have turned their attention to making maple sugar.

Yours, very truly, W. A. W.

[For The Spy.]

WORCESTER, March 22, 1859.

Messrs. Editors:—You published, "by request," this morning, a letter from Worcester to the Boston Temperance Visitor, signed W. M., which is written, it seems to me, in any thing but a temperate spirit. If it were to be read only by our own citizens, it would be unworthy of notice, written as it is in a spirit of bitterness and unfairness, utterly overstepping the bounds of truth. But it is not among our own citizens alone that this slander is to circulate. It is to go abroad among strangers, who know us only by reputation; and what a reputation, if the statements and inuendoes of this writer are to be taken! Shame on any one who calls himself a citizen of Worcester, who could thus go about, merely to gratify some petty spleen or malice, vilifying the fair fame of our city—a city, I will venture to say, with all its faults, which stands second to none for good order and good morals. The writer is evidently anxious to be considered a martyr to principle, and to wear, with a few others, the crown of martyrdom, and takes great merit to himself that his "boxes" were not so large as his neighbors'. Of the elegant language he uses, it is not necessary to speak, nor of the foolish reason he gives for what he considers persecution—which last, the record of the Police Court will falsify.

It is enough, to say that the whole article is overstrained, and wide from the truth; and, though it is to be lamented that intemperance and vice are evils from which our fair and beloved city are by no means free, (would that she were!) still, she is not the Sodom which the writer would have the public believe, nor her rulers the panderers to vice and immorality which his overstrained and evidently spiteful statements would fain make it appear that they are.

A LOVER OF TEMPERANCE AND TRUTH.

PERSONAL.

The New York Chess Club, aided by such outside contributions as may be offered, on the return of Paul Morphy to this country in April, will give him a public dinner, a magnificent American gold watch, a set of gold and silver chess men, for beauty and costliness unsurpassed in the world, with a richly inlaid chess board "to match," together with a gold medal, commemorative of his European triumphs—the whole cost to be nearly $2500.—The English chess players intend to give Morphy a splendid dinner, on his return from his continental triumphs.

The funeral of Mike Walsh was attended on Sunday by a crowd of five thousand persons, from his late residence at No. 208 West Twenty-first street. Rev. Dr. Clapp, of the Church of the Nativity, (Episcopal) officiated. Tom Hyer, who was an intimate friend of Walsh, was present The age of Mr. Walsh was thirty-eight, and he leaves a wife and two children.

The Chevalier Raybaud, for twelve years French Consul at Porte au Prince, has published a letter in the Paris Presse defending the fallen Emperor. It is affirmed that he has acted as financial agent for the ex-Emperor, investing in the French funds those splendid savings which are to gild the exile of the old chief.

Charles G. Greene, Jr., a son of the editor of the Boston Post, is one of the firm of Vanderbrock Bros. & Co., who have lately resumed business as successors to Greene & Co., bankers, in Paris.

DEATH OF A BRIDEGROOM.—A young man named Myron Reed, a resident of Tully, Onondago county, was engaged to a Miss Louisa Brown of the same town, and the celebration of their nuptials was to have occurred on Monday, the 14th inst. On Saturday, while paying a visit to his betrothed, Mr. Reed took up a letter and proceeded to peruse it. Thinking he was occupied a long time in its perusal, the young lady spoke to him, but he did not answer; she went nearer and spoke louder, but when she came near to him discovered that he was a corpse! Reed was buried on Monday—the very day fixed for his marriage. He was arrayed in his wedding costume for burial, and his betrothed followed him to the tomb in her bridal attire.

GOLDEN WEDDING.—On the 14th of February, Capt. Freeborn Stearns and his wife, of Rindge, N. H., celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. All of their children now living, eight in number, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, and other relatives, about forty in the whole, assembled at the homestead, where all of their fourteen children, except one, were born, and had a very pleasant festival. The parents of Mr. Stearns lived together as husband and wife seventy years.

THE LATE TERRIBLE RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—The Hamilton (Canada) Spectator Extra contains some additional particulars of the accident to the night passenger train upon the Great Western (Canada) Railroad, in consequence of the washing away of a heavy bank between Flamborough and Dundas. Six persons were killed, including the engineer and a brakeman, and a large number injured, some, it is feared, fatally. We do not notice any Eastern passengers among the killed or injured. The Spectator says:

"The night freight train West had passed over the line from Hamilton to Copetown, meeting the night express East, at the latter place.

The line was then in good condition. There was, however, a quantity of water dammed up between the track and the mountain. This, it is supposed, caused the slide."

The chasm made by the washing away of the line is at least as long as three passenger cars, and from 12 to 20 feet deep. Into this the locomotive rushed headlong, burying itself completely in the soil, and becoming of course, an absolute wreck. The baggage car fell above and on the locomotive; the first passenger car ran aslant upon this; the second passenger slid under the upturned end of the first, and the third, the sleeping car, running into this, had its corner carried away.

The scene presented was of the most frightful description, and witnesses of it represent it as far more horrible than even that at the Desjardines bridge. The furious equinoctial storm was raging in all its violence; it was blowing a hurricane, the snow was falling, not in flakes, but in positive masses. The water, too, was washing over the ridge of the mountain, on whose side the track is built, and the difficulty of succoring the wounded, of extricating the dead, and the living was much increased.

The shock to the passengers in all but the last car, was very severe; in the last, or sleeping car, it was hardly felt, owing, probably, to its peculiar construction. Here it was, however, that the late Superintendent of the Locomotive Department of the Railway, Mr. Braid, unfortunately happened to be. He was not in the berths, but sitting in the corner, near the stove, chatting with Mr. Wilson and another gentleman. Bolts and timbers from the passenger car in front, entered the sleeping car, only wounding Mr. Wilson, but killing Mr. Braid instantly.

The debris of the cars present so confused a mass of absolute wreck to the eye, that a rumor was for a time in circulation that a second-class car was attached to the train, and was buried under the whole. This is not the case—as the officials of the line inform us, although some people imagined they discerned portions of it amid the ruins of the others."

THE FRESHETS.—The Manchester (N. H.) papers state that the Hookset bridge, over the Merrimac, built last year at a cost of $6000, was swept away on Sunday, and carried over Amoskeag Falls, dashing it in pieces. The Nashua bridge is badly injured, and a railroad bridge at West Concord is destroyed. The rush of water, ice, wood, and timber, over Amoskeag Falls, is said to be tremendous. Also at Pawtucket Falls, near Lowell, on the same stream.

The Greenfield Gazette says the Deerfield and Green Rivers were higher last week than for several years previously. The bridge across the canal near Goss's, Montague City, with the embankment of the canal, were carried away. The Montague bridge has been left a wreck by the flood on the Connecticut, which has torn away nearly all the boards on the South side, and nearly all the stringers and braces. The damage is estimated at $3000 to $4000. A bridge across Miller's River, between Erving and Wendell depot, has been swept away. The bulkheads of the dams at Orange and Athol depot have been washed away. A great deal of lumber between Athol and Grout's has been carried off. The Ashuelot Railroad at Hinsdale is so badly damaged that trains cannot pass.

At Springfield, on Monday night, the Connecticut had fallen three feet. The Connecticut River Railroad is again in regular operation. Another bridge is reported to be gone—that at Hartland, Vt.

At Northampton, on Saturday evening, the railroad track was so badly washed that a locomotive was precipitated into the water, and the engineer escaped drowning by swimming to the embankment. Portions of the Northampton dike narrowly escaped destruction from the force of the water.

At Hartford, all the city east of Front street is more or less submerged. The East Hartford causeway is badly washed, and a couple of bridges in the vicinity considerably damaged. Many of the houses are flooded to the second story, in some instances placing the inmates in peril. The track of the P., H. & F. Railroad, east of the Connecticut, is washed so as to be unsafe. The water is three feet deep in the gas works, on Front street, and no more gas can be had till the water subsides.

Heavy rains in the region of Pottsville, Pa., have done an incalculable amount of damage to the coal mines, many of which are completely drowned out, and all operations have been suspended. A freshet on the Susquehanna carried away five spans of the Clark's Ferry Bridge, at Harrisburg, belonging to the Pennsylvania, on the 19th.

Latest advices from the frontier state that the Platte River is rushing down in a flood full nine miles wide. Hundreds of early emigrants, bound for the gold mines, were encamped on its bank, waiting opportunity to cross. Fort Kearney is surrounded by water, and the Missouri, under the influence of the flood, is higher than ever before known thus early in the season.

OUTBREAK AT AUBURN PRISON—Two Prisoners Fatally Wounded.—Auburn, March 19.—One of the convicts employed in the hame shop being unruly, the head keeper, Mr. Austin, ordered him to be taken to the dungeon. The shop-keeper, Mr. Hubbard, proceeded to execute the order, and while in the act of unlocking the cell door, the prisoner broke away from him and ran back to the shop, calling upon the other convicts for assistance. The head keeper then attempted to secure him, when the convict struck him with a bar of iron, and drew a weapon—a round file, sharpened to a point—which the keeper wrested from him. All the convicts in the shop then made a rush and commenced throwing hammers, planes, &c., at the officers. The Agent then ordered the guard to fire upon them, and two of the convicts were mortally wounded, and one slightly. They were then marched to their cells at the point of the bayonet. One of them, a German, is armed with a knife, and declares that he will kill the first man that attempts to open his cell. The head-keeper has armed himself, and gone to see him.

The Albany Journal says:

"The hame shop, where the difficulty occurred, is the principal scene of whatever outbreaks happen in the prison. About seventy convicts are employed there, mostly athletic men, from their employment, and finding ready weapons in their hammers, files, and other tools, and the iron bars and wooden blocks which they use. Several furnaces are in the shop, and, in spite of the most vigilant watching, the men will sometimes avail themselves of them to shape and temper a tool into a weapon, and then secrete it under their clothes. The heat and active occupation stimulate frequent quarrels with the keepers and each other. Repeatedly it happens that two of them, without warning or apparent provocation, will drop their work and 'clinch' for a fight. Several times they have attacked the officers, and once or twice rose and rushed upon them en masse. The late Warden, Col. Lewis, was twice assaulted in the hame shop by convicts—once struck with a hammer and once stabbed with a knife."

A NEW GINEVRA.—A little girl in Cincinnati, one day last week, when playing "hide and seek" with a companion, hid in an old trunk, the lid of which fastened with a clash. She screamed for help till exhausted, when an alarm was raised by her long absence, and a search made. She was found almost dead from the exhaustion of the air. The little sufferer would probably have not lived many minutes longer.

DEATH OF DR. WEST, THE SEVENTH SON.—Dr. Henry West, known far and wide as a Seventh Son Doctor, died at his residence in Hallsville, in Chester, Friday, of lung fever, at an age of about 78 years. Patients have visited him from every quarter of New England, from Canada, New York, and the far west, and, though strange as it may seem, by faith in him, they say they have been cured without the aid of any medicine of consequence.—Manchester, N. H., Union.

The Times says the New York courts seem more like bear gardens than temples of justice, the lawyers bully the judges in such a manner.

A SHOWER OF FISH.—A correspondent of the London Times states that "on Friday, the 11th of February, there fell at Mountain Ash, Glanmorganshire. about 9 o'clock A. M., in and about the premises of Mr. Nixon, a heavy shower of rain and small fish. The largest size measured about four inches in length. It is supposed that two different species of fish descended; on this point, however, the public generally disagree. At the time it was blowing a very heavy gale from the south. Several of the fish are preserved in fresh water, five of which I have this day seen. They seem to thrive well. The tail and fins are of a bright white color. Some persons attempting to preserve a few in salt water, the effect is stated to have been almost instantaneous death. It was not observed at the time that any fish fell in any other part of the neighborhood."

BUSINESS NOTICES.

LIQUID AMANDINE, for the positive prevention and cure of Chapped Hands, Roughness of the Skin, &c. It is universal in its cleanliness and convenience, free from soil, oily substance, and unpleasant odor. Ordinarily, two or three applications perfect a cure, renderin the skin soft and velvety in feeling and appearance. There never was a more satisfactory preparation offered to the public than this, and all those who have used it have realized for once the truthfulness of a newspaper advertisement. Prepared only by JOHN Q. HILL, Apothecary, Mechanics' Hall Building, and for sale by all Druggists. Price 25 cents.

COMPOUND GLYCERINE LOTION is the most effectual remedy in use, for Chapped Hands and Sunburn; also, to use after Shaving, to allay the inflammation, irritation &c. Curtis's Cure for Baldness!—CURTIS'S CURE FOR BALDNESS will stop the Hair from falling! NO OIL, NO LEAD, NO SULPHUR! The Proprietor of this invaluable hair restorative lost his hair by degrees, until he became entirely bald, while in good health, and after trying every one of the many preparations advertised, for the prevention of baldness, without success, he procured a fine growth of hair by the use of this remarkable liquid; and being anxious to further test its virtues, he furnished it to others, whose success with it was equal to his own.
It will cause the hair to grow, in cases of premature baldness, and he warrants it, in all cases, to prevent the hair from falling out. It is harmless in its action, a most desirable article for toilet use, contains no greasy substance, and cleans the dandruff from the hair and the fever from the scalp. To those who are losing their hair, this is valuable, as it will stop its falling in all cases

Dr. Duponco's Golden Pills for Females—Infallible in correcting, regulating, and removing all obstructions, from whatever cause, and always successful as a restorative.
These Pills are nothing new, but have been used by the doctors for many years both in France and America, with unparalleled success in every case; and he is urged, by many thousand ladies who have used them, to make the Pills public for the alleviation of those suffering from any irregularities whatever, as well as to prevent an increase of family where health will not permit it. Females peculiarly situated, or those supposing themselves so, are cautioned against using these Pills while in that condition, as the proprietor assumes no responsibility after the above named admonition, although their mildness would prevent any mischief to health; otherwise the Pills are recommended. Full and explicit directions accompany each box. Price $1.
Sold wholesale and retail by DAVID SCOTT, Druggist, 251 Main street, corner of Mechanic street, Worcester, Mass., and by JAMES GREEN, 117 Main street, Worcester, Mass. Ladies, by enclosing them $1, can have the Golden Pills sent to any part of the country (confidently) by return mail. Sold also by A. A. Bartlett, Clinton; James B. Lane, Fitchburg; Cantrell & Son, Danielsonville; A. Houghton, Athol Depot; Balch & Son, Providence; Weeks & Potter, Boston; and by one Druggist in every town in the Union.
N. B.—Ladies, be particular in asking for "Dr. Duponco's Golden Pills," and see that the signature is on the box; you will then obtain a medicine you may fully rely upon. The agent will tell you they are no secret compound, but are made known to all concerned.

Hutchins' Life Exhilarant.—This novel preparation has met with the approval of the family in every part of the world, and the discoverer and proprietor fearlessly proclaims it to be unequalled as a rejuvenator and restorer of wasted or inert functions.
Hutchings' Life Exhilarant should be used by all nervous persons, as it stimulates the nerves to their natural work, and will not produce a reaction, no matter how suddenly dropped.
It is also a GRAND TONIC, and will give relief in DYSPEPSIA with the first dose. A brief persistesce in its use will renovate the stomach to a degree of perfect health, and banish dyspepsia forever.
The aged should be certain to make Hutchins' Life Exhilarant a household god, inasmuch as it will render them youthful in feeling and strength, and enable them to live over again the days of their pristine joy. It not only exhilarates but strengthens, and is really an invaluable blessing, especially to those who have been reduced to a condition of servility by self-abuse, misfortune, or ordinary sickness. No matter what the cause of the impotency of any human organ, this superb Exhilarant will remove the effect at once and forever.
Hutchings' Life Exhilarant should be used by all persons who have disordered nerves, stomach, liver, muscular action, torpid intellect, or lowness of spirits. It is compounded of harmless, yet powerful simples, and contains not a grain or atom of mineral substance.
Females afflicted with barrenness will discover in Hutchings' Life exhilarant the realization of their hopes of maturity.
This remarkable and unapproachable preparation is for sale by the Proprietor, R. B. HUTCHINGS, at 165 Chambers street, New York City. All orders should be addressed to him. Sent by express everywhere. One large bottle $1; six bottes for $5. Sold by M. B. GREEN & CO., Worcester. deodaweow3m f22

To Married Ladies.—The 'Indian Emmenagogue,' is a new and elegant medicine, designed expressly for females. It is prepared from an Indian plant, which from time immemorial has rendered parturition among the natives so easy, and is now for the first time offered to the public. The name and virtues of this wondrous plant were recently obtained from Sken-an-do-ah, an Oneida Chief now residing at Syracuse, N. Y., at the advanced age of 110 years! It is neatly put up in two ounce bottles, with full directions for using, and is warranted to cure any case of female obstruction in twenty-four hours! This may seem incredible, but if it fail in any case, the price will be refunded. Purely vegetable and perfectly safe at all times.
☞ Remember, this is the only medicine of the kind that is warranted in all cases; none other is worthy of confidence. Sent by express to any part of the country. Sold only at Dr. Mattison's Remedial Institute, No. 28 Union st., Providence, R. I. See advertisement in this paper. deod&wly ja10

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, for Children Teething.—This valuable preparation is the prescription of one of the most experienced and skillful nurses in New England, and has been used with never failing success in thousands of cases.
It not only relieves the child from pain, but invigorates the stomach and bowels, corrects acidity, and gives tone and vigor to the whole system.
It will almost instantly relieve griping in the bowels, and overcome convulsions, which, if not speedily remedied, end in death.
We believe it the best and surest remedy in the world, in all cases of Dysentery and Diarrhœa in children, whether it arises from teething or from any other cause.
Look well for the genuine article, with fac-simile of CURTIS & PERKINS, New York, on the outside wrapper, without which none is genuine.
Price, 25 cts. per bottle, and sold by Druggists throughout the world.

LATEST NEWS.

BY TELEGRAPH
TO THE WORCESTER DAILY SPY
[American Telegraph Office, Lincoln House Block.]

From Washington.

WASHINGTON, March 22.—It was expected, last Monday, that the Grand Jury, who made a presentation against Mr. Sickles for murder, would return a true bill; but so far, nothing further has been done on the subject.

Prominent individuals have been named for the British and French missions, and the London Consulate, but it is well known that no changes are contemplated.

The Boston Post Office question has not yet been acted on by the Attorney General, to whom all the papers in the case will probably be submitted to-morrow. Postmaster Capen has arrived here.

Private advices from Tampico express confidence in Vera Cruz holding out, unless there shall be treachery. The garrison at Tampico has been reduced to less than one hundred and twenty men by the withdrawal of the Liberal troops for the defence of Vera Cruz. Tampico had not been threatened, but fears were entertained of the loyalty of the man-of-war belonging to the Liberals in that port.

Gen. Henningsen will leave Washington tomorrow for Savannah, to collect emigrants for Arizona. The emigrants of the Arizona Association will rendezvous at Powder Horn, Texas, in July, and at El Paso in September. Three hundred men are engaged to come down the Mississippi to join the expedition, and men are also collecting in New York, Ohio, and other States.

Mysterious Disappearance.

EASTON, ME., March 22.—Great excitement exists here relative to the mysterious disappearance of Mr. Samuel Yeager, last week. There is a meeting to-night of the citizens for the purpose of giving an expression of feeling in regard to the matter. The Court House is jammed. A very liberal reward will be offered for any information relative to Mr. Yeager, that will lead to an explanation of the mystery. His family and friends are in great distress.

Roxbury and Boston.

BOSTON, March 22.—In the Senate today, the bill to annex Roxbury to Boston was defeated—12 to 17.

Ice in the Penobscot.

BANGOR, March 22, 8 P. M.—The ice remains in the same position this evening as last night. The water has fallen off a little. It is thought the river will not be clear of ice for a week or more, unless rain or warm weather supervenes.

MASSACHUSETTS LEGISLATURE.

MONDAY, March 21.

SENATE.

The vote passing the Williams College bill to a third reading was reconsidered, and the bill so amended as to require the College to maintain three State scholarships, instead of five.

The bill to increase the school fund was so amended, by a vote of 17 to 10, that after the liabilities already imposed on the Back Bay lands shall have been provided for, all the remaining proceeds shall go to the school fund, in addition to the 50 per cent. to which the bill first reported entitles it. It was then, by a vote of 18 to 9, ordered to a third reading.

The bill authorizing an issue of scrip to the Museum of Comparative Zoology came up, and several amendments offered thereto by Mr. Butler were rejected. An amendment, requiring it to be kept open to the public, was adopted, and the bill passed to a third reading—22 to 6. Adjourned.

HOUSE.

The Committee on the State House reported a resolve granting leave to set up Powers's abortion, called the statue of Webster, on the grounds in front of the State House—we suppose as a perpetual monument of the taste of the present Legislature.

The Superior Court bill was so amended as to require law terms of the Supreme Court to be holden annually at Worcester, Northampton, and Lenox, and then passed to be engrossed.

SALE OF PICTURES.—At a large auction sale of paintings in New York, Thursday evening, Winterhalter's "Florinde" was started at $2000, and bid off by William H. Webb, for $3150. Thirty-two pictures—landscapes, portraits, and fancy pieces—brought prices varying from $100 to $510—among them "The Fishing Party," by Stearns, containing portraits of Eliot, Louis Gaylord Clark, and Fred. Cozzens, at $160; and two pictures, four by six inches, representing fowls bathing, $100 each.

The girl-boy, Mary E. Austin, whose sex was discovered at Stafford, a few days since, after she had worn boys' clothes all winter, has returned to her Rhode Island friends, wearing the same disguise for reasons best known to herself. She is described as modest, good-looking, and able to pass for a pleasant young man of eighteen years. Her betrayer, Austin, alias Young, has been arrested, but the girl having departed, the magistrate discharged him for lack of testimony.

The grand jury of Lorain county, Ohio, have indicted as kidnappers, Jennings, a lawyer, and Lowe, Davis, and Marshall, officers concerned in the arrest of the negro at Oberlin, about whose rescue so much fuss has been made. The Oberlin Evangelist says that before the trial of the thirty-seven rescuers is over, it will be definitely ascertained whether Ohio is a free State or not.

In the suit of Sarah Ann Ellis, of Oneida county, against Benjamin H. Long of Buffalo, for breach of promise of marriage, damages laid at $10,000, the jury rendered a verdict of $3,750. The defendant had married another person, after an "engagement" with the plaintiff.

Two fugitive slaves were taken to the jail at Louisville, Ky., last week, who had been captured in Indiana. They fought like men for their liberty, fatally wounding one of their pursuers, and receiving severe injuries themselves. They escaped from South Carolina.

A recent letter from Kentucky to the Washington Union, says the growing crops of small grain have come out wonderfully, and the prospect of an abundant yield of wheat is highly flattering. Similar reports are received from all parts of Tennessee.

The enormous quantity of one hundred and ten thousand pounds of fish, principally haddock, was brought into Swampscott last week Monday, by the fishermen of that place. The fish sold for seventy-five cents per one hundred pounds. This was the "largest catch of the season."

The hog cholera is prevailing extensively in Kentucky, one farmer having lost in the last year and a half, between six and seven thousand dollars' worth of hogs by this frightful disease.

The Dubuque (Iowa) Herald says that a gentleman from the interior of that State, passed, a few days ago, sixty wagons for Pike's Peak, stuck fast in the mud. The accompanying emigrants quietly encamped, to wait for drier weather.

A distinguished Barrister at Law, writes from Augusta, Maine, as follows: "When I commenced taking JONAS WHITCOMB'S REMEDY FOR ASTHMA, I had been afflicted with that disease nearly twenty years. It is of the spasmodic kind: in a bad attack I have frequently sat up sixteen night in succession. Soon after taking the Remedy, I found an unaccustomed relief; my health and strength began to improve; I have gained twenty pounds in weight, and have comparatively no Asthma. It seems to me that the very foundation of my disease is broken up, and that it will soon entirely leave me."

EXPERIENCED AGENTS WANTED.
In Press, to be published shortly, DIARY OF THE AMERICAN REVOLUTION, from newspapers and original documents. By Frank Moore. In 2 vols.; 8vo; of 500 pages each. Embellished with twelve Engravings and Plans on Steel. Price $5.
Sold only by Subscription.
The design of this work is to present a view of the American Revolution as it appeared to those who were actors in it. It is composed of selections from the Whig and Loyal newspapers of the period, together with extracts from hitherto unpublished private diaries kept during the war, and at once affords the reader a narrative, in the original language and expression, of both sides of the great questions which agitated the conflicting countries.
Copious notes, illustrative of the more obscure portions of the text; biographical sketches of eminent patriots, statesmen, military and naval commanders; together with an analyletical index, will be attached to the work.
AGENTS WANTED to canvass for subscribers in Massachusetts and Rhode Island.
N. B.—As no similar work has ever been published, and as the work must interest all classes, indeed every one who would view the American Revolution as it appeared to the actors in it, it offers special inducement to agents. For terms and full particulars, address

DOOM; OR, THE SILENT BEGGAR.

A Tale of Love, Passion, and Mystery.

BY HERMAN MANVILLE.

"Of your history I know nothing," he answered' "save that you are the niece of Mr. Walden, of the villa beyond, and the reputed affiance of Col. Winslow. Also that you are an heiress. For all this I care nothing. My kind landlady, who gave me this information, also repeated to me your inestimable virtues and goodness, which was far sweeter music to my ear. She likewise doubted the rumor of your being engaged to Winslow. Have I been too frank?"

"No, for less would have disappointed me in your character. But——" she hesitated.

"Miss Fairchild——"

"Be plain with me, as I am with you. Call me—Valinda," she said archly.

"O thank you for the privilege," he said, It is a strange, sweet name, and I love its sound."

"What were you going to say?"

"This, and I want you to hear me through it. You have read and heard strange tales of that mystic world in which the artist dwells—that world of sun-tinted dreams and exaggerated fancies. Each of us—poor worshippers of Art—are cursed with a passion for the infinite, which common mortals never know. I call it a curse, for, alas! how often does it prove so! since it is so seldom attained! We each, in our turn, as we read of the old masters, wonder, if we, too, are to tread the same mystic vale, if life's romance is to mark our career, and add us to the list of the doomed! Thus I have lived and wondered; thus toiled for bread and hoped for fame. I—like most of them—am an orphan, friendless and poor; thus far I have labored and hoped in peace; but now—"

"What now, Claude," she asked, in a tremulous voice, as he hid his face in his hands.

"Now—the crisis has come! the curse is on me! I am among the doomed!" he cried, in bitter agony.

The color came and went in Valinda's fair countenance, like the red flames in a conflagration in an avalanche of snow. She bit her lips, until the blood almost burst forth, and great teardrops were swimming in her eyes. The flowers dropped from her bosom, shaken by its violent emotion, and her very curls seemed to tremble.

"Claude!" she exclaimed, in a deep, trembling, earnest voice; "there are others beside the votaries of art who suffer the same curse—the same terrible doom. These are the pure, sensitive souls, reared by a tender mother's care into the fullness of a perfect virtue, then suddenly left desolate in the world, to become the prey of cruel circumstances and designing villainy! The young, fair girl, with pure soul and elevated mind, whose position in the world makes her the aim for all Parthian and poisoned arrows, until she falls, overwhelmed and crushed, a victim to its heartless malignity! Claude, I too am doomed!"

"You!" he said, looking up. My God! how? Who would dare to harm you?"

"My fate is sealed!" she muttered in the voice of one inspired.

"For Winslow?" cried Claude, anxiously.

"Never for Winslow!"

"O, Valinda! I know it seems blasphemous presumption—but—may I hope?" he cried wildly.

"Hope, hope, Claude, and—wait! O yes," she cried, "wait, Claude. Ask me for no pledges, no promises; we will meet, sometimes—it dare not be often—there, don't look gloomy; you cannot know all. We will meet sometimes here and in New York; our hearts should go through some ideal to try these new impressions and emotions; it all seems like a dream to me—as if I had been suddenly launched into a new world. Ask nothing more of me, expect nothing—until circumstances shall have worked out our fate. Will you wait?"

"Yes, Valinda!" he cried, kissing her hand passionately, "I have been just born into a new life. I will wait until my existence is matured—years, if you demand it—for I know that I can trust you."

"You may," she said in a quiet voice, "and now I must return—it is late. Call upon my uncle this afternoon; he knows his obligation to you—for I told him all—and he will be glad to see you."

"Farewell, thou angel visitant of my soul! bright star of my inscrutable destiny! Farewell!" he cried, and rushed wildly away.

He did not run far, however. His form was scarcely concealed from her by the trunk of a large oak, when a heavy hand was laid, vice-like, upon his arm, and he almost fell beneath the shock. He turned and beheld—Colonel Winslow!

"Not so fast, my young fillibuster!" cried the colonel, with a mocking smile, and eyes kindled with malignant fire.

"Hands off!" cried Claude, indignantly releasing his hold.

"Humph! that was quite a pleasant tete-a-tete you had just now with Miss Valinda," said Winslow, with a sinister smile.

"And pray, sir, what business is it of yours?" asked Claude, reddening with rage. "It certainly could make no difference to the interests of a man who could condescend to play the spy—"

"Death and furies!" he was about to spring upon Claude, when he suddenly, as if with a giant strength, crushed the rage which was choking him. "Enough! you have crossed my path, and added to it insult. Your card?"

"Take it! name in full!" cried Claude, and with one blow of his clenched fist he sent him reeling to the ground!

Claude did not wait to see the effect of his blow, but turning, proceeded on his way. He was suddenly arrested, however, by a loud report, and a bullet whistling by his ear, almost close enough to clip his locks. He turned round indignantly as a wild scream pierced, as it were, his very soul. His glance fell upon Winslow, who stood some twenty paces off, still holding in his hand the discharged pistol, while farther off, in the middle of the path, her hands clasped to her breast in an attitude of painful anxiety, stood the beautiful Valinda.

Claude's fair brows lowered with momentary rage, and his dark eyes flashed a dangerous light.

"Coward! assassin!" he cried. "Beware the next time you cross my path, for you will not find me the plaything of a boy as you suppose. Farewell, Colonel Winslow! We may meet again, and when you next aim a bullet at me, I pray, for the honor of the title you assume, it may be when my face is toward you, and I have a similar chance!"

"That will be sooner than you desire!" hissed Winslow, through his set teeth.

Claude turned with a bow of disdain, and pursued his way, leaving the foiled and disconcerted Colonel rooted, as it were, by his own degradation, to the spot where he stood. As soon as he could recover from his rage and chagrin, he turned to look after Valinda, but she was gone.

Meanwhile, our hero, Claude Morrel, had returned to the cottage, and gained his room without running the gauntlet of the widow's questions, immediately set to work to pack up a few necessary articles in his portmanteau.

"Why, are you going away, Mr. Morrell?" asked Mrs. Carrol, in surprise, as he descended to the parlor, valise in hand.

"Sudden business calls me to New York for a few days," he replied, quickly. "But do not be alarmed, madam; I will return within a week."

The widow, with natural curiosity, would like to have asked what his "sudden business" was, and how he had learned of it in his morning walk, and she would like to have known whether or not he had seen the beautiful Valinda at the villa, and—

But she had not time to ask either, for Claude bid her a hasty "good bye," and started across the fields towards the railroad station. He was just in time for the early train, and taking his seat in a retired place in the car, soon became lost in his reflections, as he was whirled rapidly onward to the city.

"Claude Morrel could scarcely answer, had he been asked the question, why he had so suddenly left the widow's cot and hurried to the city. He seemed to be impelled by some unknown and indefinable spirit of destiny. He felt that his dream of Art was, for a time, broken; that the current of his life was changed—launched, as it were, into a new channel, and he had no power but to follow the impulse of destiny. He tried to solve the riddle thus:

"Valinda is going to New York; she has forbidden me to be anxious or persistent, commanding me to stand aloof until she calls. I obey; but she is going to the city—she may need me; I will be near her. Again, Winslow is going there; she saw him this morning attempt my life—I heard her shriek as he fired the pistol; there will be a scene between them, and if I have read him rightly, he is not a man to be easily foiled, or, if rejected, will not pause without revenge. I should be near, to protect her against his wiles."

He reached the city about one o'clock, and was dismounting at the Harlem depot, when a figure flitted by him. It was that of a woman of middle age, dressed in deep black, and wearing a thick veil. He would not have noticed her, but, as she passed him, the veil was drawn slightly aside, and he caught the quick glance of two black, weird eyes, set, as it were, in a haggard statue of Parian.

Claude paused, as the figure flitted on, almost holding his breath in surprise. He had seen that pale face, those fascinating, magnetic eyes before. He had seen the same figure—but dressed in different attire, and under different circumstances. Where? In the little valley by the Hudson, on the preceding night, after he had saved the beautiful Valinda from a watery grave. It was the mysterious mendicant, who seemed to guard his destiny!"

"Hallo! Claude! is that you, my fine fellow!" cried a voice near him.

He turned and confronted a handsome, well-dressed young man, about his own age, and with a frank, ingenuous countenance which could be read at a glance.

"Charley Denham!" cried the artist, eagerly grasping his hand.

"Yes, my dearest friend, but how is this? I was only expecting a letter about this time, and here you are in propria personæ. What brought you so suddenly from your rustic retreat?"

Claude blushed, and replied "Business." Then taking his friend's arm, he led him away to his studio in Houston street, telling him, as they went along, all the incidents which had made up the last twenty-four hours of his life.

Charles Denham was the son of a wealthy merchant (now junior partner in the establishment, in fact), but unlike most of his class, he was thrifty, accomplished, and the model of a refined gentleman. He had graduated, two years before, at Harvard, spent a year on the Continent, and then returned home to settle down in the legitimate pursuit of his father, and cultivating those branches of learning and art which were most congenial to his tastes. Among others, he had a kind of domestic passion for painting, which had been increased by his observation of the immortal works of the great masters. It was in this pursuit that he had become acquainted with our hero, and finding in him that tone of stern integrity and high honor which echoed through his own heart, they became, notwithstanding the disparity of their pecuniary positions, fast and confiding friends.

It was no wonder, then, that Claude hastened to tell his friend the secret of his love, for, though he knew that it would make him the victim of his first quizzing humor, he felt that he would have his sympathy, and, if need be, his assistance.

"And so, my poor boy, you are in love!" cried Denham, as they entered the artist's studio, and became seated.

"I fear so, very much," was Claude's calm but blushing reply.

"Shades of Titian, hear it!" exclaimed Charles, in mock-heroic style. A painter of twenty-one in love! Claude, don't you feel pale?"

The artist smiled faintly, and felt quite otherwise.

"And you could not fall in love either, without falling in the water!" continued his friend, in the same style of raillery. What a damp affection that must have been! So 'the lean and hungry Cassius' once loved Cæsar, but it wasn't long after he had saved him from the 'raging Tiber,' that he turned traitor! The omen is a bad one, my dear friend!"

Thanks that it is but your comparison that makes the omen," said Claude, laughing.

"True; I forgot that," said Denham. "But that don't appear to be all. After escaping the fire and brimstone of an old witch of a beggar, and the bullet of the assassin Winslow, you've probably got to fight the scoundrel a duel yet."

"I freely confess that nothing would give me greater satisfation," said Claude, reddening.

"Yes, I know you're a devilish good shot; let me see! what was that you did the night previous to your going to the country? rang the bell five in six?"

"Yes."

"At fifteen paces; good! But you say he has been in the army; these officers are the devil with the sword, and he might choose it. Who is your maitre d'armes?"

"Lincoln."

"And he is—"

"The best in the country."

"Except yourself—don't blush—he told me so himself! Damn it, Claude! give me your hand. I am glad of all this from the core of my heart. You needed something to tear you from your dingy room and easel. You were growing musty for a lack of contact with the world; losing all knowledge of your kind, and all those motives which inspire the painter by the mere force of contrast. I have tried long in vain, to bring about this result, which your new passion has accomplished. But the best is to come, Claude; I know your fair divinity."

"What! you know Valinda?" cried Claude, springing to his feet.

"Yes, well; I met her first, last season, at Saratoga, immediately after my return from Europe. I confess that I was smitten with her, and, for a time, entered the list of her wooers; but while I was treated with more attention than the rest, she soon gave me to understand that nothing but the purest friendship inspired her actions, and my case was hopeless. I understood and felt it all without words. I was not deep, passionate, earnest enough for her; she was spiritual as an angel, I was of the earthly. A most intimate friendship sprang up between us, which has continued until this day; and as you say she is in town, we shall both call upon her to-night at her relatives."

Claude turned pale and trembled.

"What is the matter?"

"I cannot go, Charley!" he answered, half sadly.

"Why not?"

"Have I not repeated to you the conversation which passed between us this morning? I dare not approach her—dare not come within the hallowed circle of her presence unbidden! But two words have been spoken. "Hope!"—"wait!" They are but two words, yet they contain my destiny."

There was a rap at the door, timid and scarcely perceptible.

"Who can have already learned that I have arrived?" asked Claude, in a tone of surprise.

"I will go behind the curtain while you admit them?" said Denham, as he passed behind a screen.

Claude opened the door, and was confronted by a woman dressed in deep black, and wearing a close veil over her face. She extended a thin, white hand. Claude unconsciously did the same, and instantly he felt a paper pressed into it, while the lady walked rapidly away. He recognized her as the same he had seen at the depot.

Confused, and uncertain what to do, he closed the door and sank into a chair.

"What is the matter?" asked Denham, coming from behind the screen.

Without answering, he opened the note and read as follows:

"I am your guardian angel, and will protect you while I can; but there is terrible danger threatens you here! I charge you, should he challenge you, not to meet Colonel Winslow. Do not disobey my warning. Fly! go anywhere, but here! Valinda shall be yours! Remember! THE SILENT BEGGAR."

The continuation of this thrilling and beautiful story will be found in No. 9 of The Stars and Stripes, March 26th, the largest and best family story paper published in America. The Stars and Stripes preserves the highest tone of morality; its stories, tales, and romances, are powerful and thrilling in their character, portraying life in its wonderful changes and realities, illustrating the correctness of the remark that "truth is stranger than fiction." It contains, besides its stories, tales, romances, and adventures, an immense amount of miscellaneous reading matter of varied interest and amusement, and a continued fund of anecdote, humor, and wit. The romances and adventures are illustrated by the best artists in the United States.

All families desiring the largest, best, and most interesting and amusing family story paper, should subscribe for or purchase The Stars and Stripes, which bids fair to outstrip all others in circulation, and can be procured from any newsdealer in the States.

THE ONLY POSITIVELY FIRE PROOF SAFE in the world.
When the contents of safes are destroyed, they are invariably burned by heat being conducted to them and the inside wood casing, through the door and doorway, by iron bolts and plates forming and fastening the iron box to the outside iron plate of the door, and joining directly on to the inside wood casing, thus forming a continuous conductor of the best heat conducting material from the outside directly upon the inside wood casing, and contents of the safe.
☞All Safes save ours are thus built.
The Marland Patent Safe is so constructed as to entirely cut off all communication of heat to this part by so constructing the door and the doorway of soap stone, or other non-conducting material, as to have no iron bolts running through the door or iron plate around the doorway, nor any connections from the outer to the inner part of the safe, thereby keeping the interior and contents of the safe as effectually protected from all heat that can be applied to the door, as in any other portion of the safe.

PATENT AGENCY
—FOR THE—
UNITED STATES, GREAT BRITAIN, FRANCE, And other European countries.
The subscriber, A PRACTICAL MECHANIC AND DRAFTSMAN, well acquainted with the Patent Laws, has been for some years very successful in obtaining Patents.
He continues to make Models, and to prepare Specifications, Drawings, and all necessary papers, and to procure Patents in the United States and European countries. Foreign business confided only to trusty and responsible agents.
All business confided to me will be promptly attended to at the lowest rates. (Usually 25 per cent. lower than the same would be done by others in the profession.)
Being connected with the best Agents at Washington and making frequent trips there, I am enabled to keep thoroughly posted in all matters relating to Patents and new Inventions, thus affording the best facilities for preliminary examinations, and advising Inventors in regard to securing a Patent for their inventions.
Inventors will find it to their advantage to pu heir inventions into a substantial form or Model as soon as practicable, (this frequently secures a Patent in case of question of priority of invention,) and consult some reliable person acquainted with the Patent Laws and proceedings in the Patent office, as to securing their rights.
All communications strictly confidential. Advice as to mode of proceeding given gratis. Preliminary examinations made, comparing inventions with those already patented, or in use for the same purpose, or involving the same principles, and advice given as to the probability of obtaining a patent, in some cases saving from fifty to one hundred dollars to the Inventor.
MODELS of all Inventions that require them, made to order upon reasonable terms, and warranted to answer the requisitions of the Patent Office.
Deeds of assignments recorded at Washington. Copies of Drawings, Specifications, and other papers in the Patent Office obtained.
The Patent Laws, Reports of Patent Cases, and other valuable works relating to Patents, together with a complete list of all the Patents on record at Washington, can be seen at my office, free of charge.

Medicines.

SCROFULA, OR KING'S EVIL, is a constitutional disease. a corruption of the blood, by which this fluid becomes vitiated, weak and poor. Being in the circulation, it pervades the whole body, and may burst out in disease in any part of it. No organ is free from its attacks, nor is there one which it may not destroy. The scrofulous taint is variously caused by mercurial disease, low living, disordered or unhealthy food, impure air, filth and filthy habits, the depressing vices, and, above all, the venerial infection. Whatever be its origin, it is hereditary in the constitution, descending "from parents to children unto the third and fourth generation;" indeed, it seems to be the rod of Him who says, "I will visit the iniquities of the fathers upon their children."

Its effects commence by deposition from the blood of corrupt or ulcerous matter, which, in the lungs, liver, and internal organs, is termed tubercles; in the glands, swellings; and on the surface, eruptions or sores. This foul corruption, which genders in the blood, depresses the energies of life, so that scrofulous constitutions not only suffer from scrofulous complaints, but they have far less power to withstand the attacks of other diseases; consequently, vast numbers perish by disorders which, although not scrofulous in their nature, are still rendered fatal by this taint in the system. Most of the consumption which decimates the human family has its origin directly in this scrofulous contamination; and many destructive diseases of the liver, kidneys, brain, and, indeed, of all the organs, arise from or are aggravated by the same cause.

One-quarter of all our people are scrofulous; their persons are invaded by this lurking infection, and their health undermined by it. To cleanse it from the system, we must renovate the blood by an alterative medicine, and invigorate it by healthy food and exercise. Such a medicine we supply in

Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla,

The most effectual remedy which the medical skill of our times can devise for this everywhere prevailing and fatal malady. It is combined from the most active remedials that have been discovered for the expurgation of this foul disorder from the blood, and the rescue of the system from its destructive consequences. Hence it should be employed for the cure of not only scrofula, but also those other affections which arise from it, such as Eruptive and Skin Diseases, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose, or Erysipelas, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Blains and Boils, Tumors, Tetter, and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Rheumatism, Syphilitic and Mercurial Diseases, Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Debility, and, indeed, all complaints arising from vitiated and impure blood. The popular belief in "impurity of the blood is founded in truth, for scrofula is a degeneration of the blood. The particular purpose and virtue of this Sarsaparilla is to purify and regenerate this vital fluid, without which sound health is impossible in contaminated constitutions.

AYER'S CATHARTIC PILLS,
FOR ALL THE PURPOSES OF A FAMILY PHYSIC,

Are so composed that disease within the range of their action can rarely withstand or evade them. eir penetrating properties search, and cleanse, an invigorate every portion of the human organization, correcting its diseased action, and restoring its healthy vitalities. As a consequence of these properties, the invalid who is bowed down with pain or physical debility is astonished to find his health or energy restored by a remedy at once so simple and inviting.

Not only do they cure the every-day complaints of every body, but also many formidable and dangerous diseases The agent below named is pleased to furnish gratis any American Almanac, containing certificates of their cures and directions for their use in the following complaints: Costiveness, Heartburn, Headache arising from disorder ea stomach, Nausea, Indigestion, Pain in and Morbid In action of the Bowels, Flatulency, Loss of Appetite, Jaundice, and other kindred complaints, arising from a low state of the body or obstruction of its functions.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, FOR THE RAPID CURE OF
Coughs, Colds, Influenza, Hoarseness, Croup, Bronchitis, Incipient Consumption, and for the relief of Consumptive Patients in advanced stages of the Disease.

So wide is the field of its usefulness and so numerou are the cases of its cures, that almost every section o country abounds in persons publicly known, who have been restored from alarming and even desperate diseases of the lungs by its use. When once tried, its superiority over every other medicine of its kind is too apparent to escape observation, and where its virtues are known, the public no longer hesitate what antidote to employ for the distressing and dangerous affections of the pulmonary organs that are incident to our climate. While many inferior remedies thrust upon the community have failed and been discarded, this has gained friends by every trial, conferred benefits on the afflicted they can never forget, and produced cures too numerous and too remarkable to be forgotten.

REMOVAL.—DR. C. A. HILL'S
MEDICAL OFFICE
Is removed to
No. 82 MAIN STREET.

Ladies and Gentlemen, Strangers and Friends—I am at liberty, without solicitation, to make use of the following parts of certificates received by me during the last eighteen months. Will you read them? and if your conditon of health requires advice, either come and see me, or write me a letter, and I will tell you plainly and honestly what you need.

Dr. Hill cured me in three days of a private disease which made its appearance ten days before I called at his office. H. H. L., Millbury.
Dr. Hill—Sir, Your valuable medicines have permanently cured me of seminal weakness, which has affected me badly for the last five years. A. C. D., Barre, Mass.
Dr. Hill—Please send me a bottle of Drops for a friend of mine who is in trouble. Send the same kind you sold me, and oblige, P. H. N., Bristol, R. I.
Dr. Hill—I am now nearly cured. Think I shall need one bottle more of your Syrup, and perhaps some more of the Powders—you knew best. Send as soon as convenient. Yours, W. J., Manchester, N. H.
This was a bad case of syphilis.
Dr. Hill has treated an old case of private disease for me, and cured me, which has troubled me by pains in the limbs, back, and joints, for the last twelve years.
J. A., Newbury, Vt.
Dr. Hill cured me in six weeks of an old case of syphilis, contracted in the West Indies in 1850. You are at liberty to insert the above if you think best. Capt. T. W. N.
Dr. Hill makes use of no remedies which taint the breath or offend the stomach, but act directly upon the disease. I speak from experience.
C. J., Rutland, Mass.

TO FEMALES.—All disease peculiar to females, as Suppressions, Irregularities, &c., speedily and effectually removed.
☞The French Periodical Drops and Pills for the above affections, have been well tested for the last ten years.
Dr. Hill's "Preventive," for married ladies sent in any direction, secure from observation. Price $5. Persons at a distance may consult Dr. Hill, by letter, (post paid,) describing their case, can have medicines securely put up, and forwarded to any part of the United States, with full and explicit directions for use. Office arranged with separate apartments, so that patients see none but the Doctor.
Dr. H. makes no charges for short consultations. Postpaid letters duly answered. Those requiring much advice should enclose a small fee, sufficient to compensate for the time required to write the answer.
☞ Office hours from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m.

$500 REWARD.—DR. JEFFRIES ANTIDOTE, a Specific Mixture for the cure of Gonorrhœa, Gleet, Strictures, and similar disorders. It makes a speedy cure without the least restriction of diet, drink, exposure or change in application to business. Further—the disease cannot be contracted if a dose of the ANTIDOTE is taken when exposed. Repeated experiments and long experience has proved that it will radically cure any case which can be produced. The desirable result is obtained in from two to ten days; and as it neither creates nausea nor offends the palate, and renders unnecessary all deviation in diet or interruption to usual pursuits, sound sleep or healthy digestion, the disease is thus removed as speedily as is consistent with the thorough and permanent cure. Its engredients are entirely vegetable, and no injurious effect, either constitutionally or locally, can be caused by its use. Price $1 per bottle.—C. H. RING. General Agent, 192 Broadway, New York. Sold by M. S. BURR & CO., No. 1 Cornhill, Boston.

THE LIVER INVIGORATOR, prepared by Dr. Sanford, composed entirely of Gums, is one of the best purgative and Liver medicines now before the public, namely, that acts as a Cathartic, easier, milder, and more effectual than any other medicine known. It is not only a Cathartic, but a Liver remedy, acting first on the Liver to eject its morbid matter, thus accomplishing two purposes effectually, without any of the painful feelings experienced in the two operations of most Cathartics. It strengthens the system at the same time that it purges it, and when taken daily in moderate doses will strengthen and build it up with unusual rapidity.

SANFORD'S LIVER INVIGORATOR.

The Liver is one of the principal regulators of the human body, and when it performs its functions well the powers of the system are fully developed. The stomach is almost entirely dependent on the healthy action of the Liver for the proper performance of its functions. When the stomach is at fault, the bowels are at fault, and the whole system suffers in consequence of one organ—the Liver, having ceased to do its duty. For the diseases of that organ, one of the proprietors has made it his study, in a practice of more than twenty years to find some remedy wherewith to counteract the many derangements to which it is liable.
To prove that this remedy is at last found, any person troubled with Liver Complaint in any of its forms, has but to try a bottle, and conviction is certain.
These Gums remove all morbid or bad matter from the system, supplying in their place a healthy flow of bile, invigorating the stomach, causing food to digest well, purifying the blood, giving tone and health to the whole machinery, removing the cause of the disease, effecting a radical cure.
Bilious attacks are cured, and, what is better, prevented, by the occasional use of the Liver Invigorator.
One dose after eating is sufficient to relieve the stomach and prevent the food from rising and souring.
Only one dose taken before retiring, prevents Nightmare.
Only one dose taken at night, loosens the bowel gently, and cures Costiveness.
One dose taken after each meal, will cure Dyspepsia.
☞One dose of two teaspoonfuls will always relieve Sick Headache.
One bottle taken for female obstruction removes the cause of the disease, and makes a perfect cure.
Only one dose immediately relieves Cholic while One dose often repeated is a sure cure for Cholera Morbus, and a preventive of Cholera.
☞One bottle taken for Jaundice, removes all sallowness or unnatural color from the skin.
One dose taken a short time before eating, gives vigor to the appetite, and make food digest well.
One dose often repeated cures Chronic Diarrhea in its worst forms, while Summer and Bowel complaints yield almost to the first dose.
One or two doses cures attacks caused by worms, in children; there is no surer, safer, or speedier remedy in the world, as it never fails
☞ A few bottles cure Dropsy, by exciting the absorbents.
We take pleasure in recommending this medicine as a preventative for Fever and Ague, Chill Fever, and all Fevers of a bilious type. It operates with certainty, and thousands are willing to testify to its wonderful virtues.
All who use it are giving it their unanimous testimony in its favor.
☞ Mix water in the mouth with the Invigorator, and swallow both together.
THE LIVER INVIGORATOR
IS A SCIENTIFIC MEDICAL DISCOVERY, and is daily working cures, almost too great to believe. It cures as if by magic, even the first dose giving benefit, and seldom more than one bottle is required to cure any kind of LIVER Complaint, from the worst Jaundice or Dyspepsia to a common Headache, all of which are the result of a Diseased Liver.
